

EXERCISE MATS - LANDING MATS

We manufacture our folding athletic mats, also known as, folding panel gym mats with Crosslink, cross-linked polyethylene, closed cell foam filler which is a very light weight material that stubbornly resists degradation and break-down or polyurethane also known as Polyfoam. Covers are crafted of extremely durable 18 Oz. Coated vinyl, polyesters scrim, and stitched with Dacron™ thread.

These mats are designed with 2 ft. wide panels which fold in an accordion style. All folding panel mats feature 2" Velcro fasteners on each short side for end to end attachments. For large matted areas Velcro on 4 sides is required to connect long sides together.

What thickness should I purchase? 1 3/8" thick is recommended for general exercise, stretching, low impact aerobics, non-gymnastic play areas, etc. Two inch thick is recommended for tumbling, cheerleading, judo or other high impact activities like wrestling.

Which is better Crosslink polyethylene foam or polyurethane foam? Crosslink polyethylene (recommended) is the world standard for gymnastic mats. It's a firm closed cell foam that has great rebound capabilities, durable and light weight. This is recommended for serious tumblers/gymnasts/martial artists and wrestlers.

Polyurethane -also know as Polyfoam-is an open cell spongy foam with poor rebound capabilities and will break down (disintegrate) faster than polyethylene. Polyurethane may be more suitable for younger kids who create less force when tumbling. However, tiny tots may have trouble balancing on softer surfaces than on firm foam. This may retard the speed in which tiny tots learn to walk.

Recommended color is: ROYAL BLUE
